

THE DANDENONG RANGES

Kornelia Freeman & Ulo Pukk

Set amongst forests of towering Mountain Ash, with breathtaking views towards the Yarra Ranges, tourists from all over the world come to enjoy the prized gardens of the Dandenong Ranges.

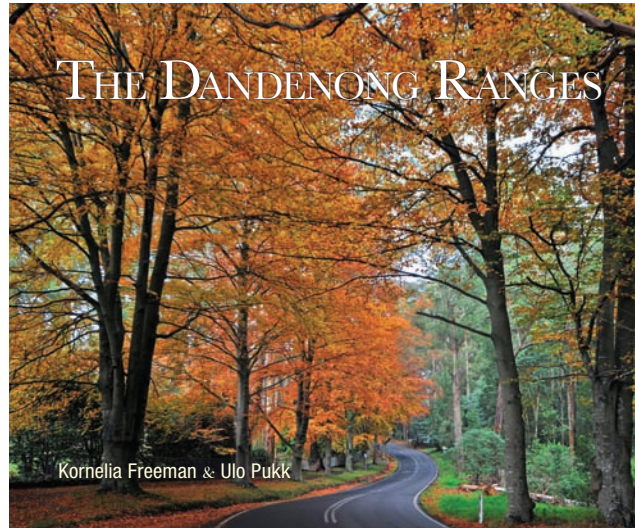

This beautifully produced book showcases the beauty and splendour of both the public and private gardens of the Dandenongs as well as its unique townships, walking tracks, mountain lookouts, restaurants, tea rooms and guest houses. Also featured in the book are the animals and birds native to the area including Victoria's three emblems: the rare helmeted honeyeater, the endangered Leadbeater's Possum and the Common Heath as well as the Superb Lyrebird.

With over 300 stunning photos together with insightful captions this book will be keenly sought by residents, tourists as well as nature lovers and history buffs.

THE AUTHORS

Kornelia Freeman and Ulo Pukk live at the base of the Dandenong Ranges. They are both keen photographers and students of natural history and their love of the Dandenong Ranges shines through on every page.
